

HOUSING LEAGUE LAUNCHED TO-DAY
Aims to Protect Tenants and Stimulate Home Building
MUST ENROLL 300,000
Fee of $1 Provides Best Legal Help in Any Trouble.
LEADING MEN ARE AIDS
Nathan Hirsch, President, Outlines Plans and Needs of Organization.

Nathan Hirsch, formerly chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering, announced yesterday the beginning of a movement for the organization of the Citizens Protective Housing League, which is to have a membership of not less than 300,000 and whose objects are to stimulate home building; to protect its members from profiteering landlords, and to furnish members, without expense to them, with paid counsel in arbitrating differences and in court proceedings.

All benefits of the plan, he said, are to be furnished on payment of dues of $1 a year. Headquarters will be opened this morning at 1248 Lexington avenue, quarters which have been donated by the Hotel Commodore, for the recruiting of members. Permanent branches will be established later in each borough.

Mr. Hirsch will be president of the league and Samuel Untermyer, attorney for the Lockwood committee, will be advisory counsel. The announced members of the executive council, which will be increased to nine, are James W. Gerard, formerly Ambassador to Germany; George Strachan Forsythe, a leader in women's civic affairs; Edward I. Hannan, labor leader, and David Gerber, attorney. A general committee of fifty is expected to be announced this week. Charles C. Hughes will be secretary and Thomas F. Curran will be treasurer. Both have been associated with Mr. Hirsch.

300,000 Must Join.
Mr. Hirsch said the organization has been undertaken at the instance of a great number of requests he has had for aid since he resigned the chairmanship of the rent committee, which under him settled 30,000 cases out of court and after numerous conferences with Mr. Untermyer and others. He said that careful figuring had convinced all interested that the plan could not be accomplished for less than $300,000 a year, and that for that reason the plan would be abandoned and money returned unless that minimum of membership can be reached.

Not only does Mr. Hirsch propose that paid lawyers of recognized standing be stationed at each of the forty-nine courts where rent cases are heard, but lawyer committees will be formed for arbitration of rent disputes. Mortgage foreclosures will be investigated and fought where necessary. The protection afforded by the present rent laws will be safeguarded at the expiration of those laws next year, if the league is successful. The adjustment of labor troubles in housing construction and the elimination of "bribe-dollars" will be another object.

The movement has the endorsement of President Justice Aaron J. Levy of the municipal courts, in which most of the rent cases are tried.

Will Be Non-Political.
That the organization shall be non-political and non-partisan was one of several stipulations laid down by Mr. Untermyer before he consented to give his services. Mr. Untermyer's association with the league, the leaders expect, will have a salutary effect in dealing with labor and mortgage problems.

Mr. Hirsch declared the organization has no money making or selfish motive whatever; that he is undertaking it with the belief that the public needs and wants such a service, and that the number of applications for membership will show whether that is true or whether the plan should be abandoned.

Mr. Hirsch is hopeful of reaching the $300,000 minimum. Already, he said, a large number of small protective associations have indicated their readiness to join in a body. One such organization with a membership of 12,000 and with $12,000 in its treasury had asked him to find a way to utilize their membership and funds before the present plan was worked out.

317,000 'WETS' ENROLL FOR ANTI-DRY PARADE
Will March Rain or Shine on Fourth of July.

No matter whether it rains or shines, the anti-dry parade will be held in Fifth avenue on the Fourth of July, according to an announcement made yesterday by Frank C. Drake, originator of the movement, who says that up to last Friday night 317,000 men and women enrolled to march.

"Letters have been received from most every large city in the country commending the movement against Volsteadism," said Mr. Drake. "Among the commensurators is one from Robert Remond of Hartford, Conn., who says he and a number of friends will come here to take part in the parade. From present indications between 400,000 and 500,000 Americans will be in the demonstration."

GIRLS' GEMS GONE, ALSO MAN FRIEND AT CONEY
Room Looted of $1,000 When They Go Bathing.

Misses Rose and Mary Primerman of 740 Prospect avenue, The Bronx, reported to the police of the Coney Island station last night that some time during the afternoon they had been robbed of jewelry worth about $1,000 from a furnished room in 2920 West Nineteenth street, Coney Island, which they had used for the summer.

The girls told the police they came to the island yesterday with Joseph Yacker of 338 East 100th street, Mary Primerman's fiancé, and that during the afternoon Rose met a man in a restaurant and brought him to the room to introduce him to her sister. Then the two girls and Yacker went bathing, leaving their jewelry and money in a bagged bag, and when they returned the bag was gone, so was the young man.

GIRL'S 'PROTECTOR' SEIZED WHEN HE TAKES $2,000 PIN
Young Man Drops Gem Into the Gutter When Policeman Takes a Hand—Gives His Name as Harry Stone and Then as Wallace McCaughty.

Miss Roslyn Pick, 15 years old, of 227 Lenox avenue, went for a subway ride yesterday afternoon, and to make the trip more exciting she wore her mother's diamond and pearl pin, which is valued at $2,000. Either the pin or the girl attracted the attention of a man in the subway, and he tried to seize her. She was seized, however, by another young man who kindly volunteered to give Miss Pick all the protection she needed.

The girl got off the train at Columbus Circle, and as she walked toward the station, she was followed by a man. She walked north along Broadway, but had gone but a short distance before the young man admired the pin she was wearing. He had previously told her that he had a great many pins like that himself at home, as he was a moving picture actor and the son of a great hotel owner. Their friendship grew so fast after that that when he asked to try the pin in his tie the girl consented.

They walked along the Central Park wall in Central Park West and turned into Seventy-second street to go to Broadway again. As they went past the Majestic Hotel Miss Pick asked her companion for the pin, and he said she would get it if she would have supper with him. She declined, with dignity, and according to her story to the police, he told her that he had already returned the pin. He tried to leave her then, the girl said, but she followed him down Broadway, and at Sixty-sixth street she found Patrolman Schnable and told him what had happened.

The young man, who first gave his name as Harry Stone of 346 West Sixty-eighth street, and then later said he was Wallace McCaughty, denied that he had the pin, but admitted that he might have dropped it. He was taken to the West Sixty-eighth street police station, where he told the Lieutenant that he "might have dropped it at Broadway and Sixty-sixth street." Patrolman Schnable went to look, and found the pin rolled up in the tinfoil wrapper of a package of cigarettes, lying in the gutter, where any one could have picked it up or where the street cleaners might have found it.

The young man was booked under both his names and charged with grand larceny. The police held the pin as evidence and sent Miss Pick home to explain to her mother. The girl said that she had taken the pin without permission, and that she expected several highly interesting things to happen when she got home.

MURDERS BAFFLE BROOKLYN POLICE
No Clue to Slayer of Aged Woman Caretaker in Canarsie Section.

After investigation yesterday, Brooklyn detectives found no clue in the murder Saturday night of Mrs. Jane A. Shaw, 67, caretaker, slain in the office of a building materials yard of the Canarsie section, or the killing of Thomas G. Smith, a marine cook, found in Gold street with five knife wounds in his neck.

The body of Mrs. Shaw was discovered between 11 o'clock and midnight by George H. Krier, manufacturer of cement blocks and building materials, who employed the woman and her husband, William, to keep office and yard in order. The body was in a rear room. In the front room Krier saw some one had attempted to break open the office door, which had been smashed off and lay on the floor.

When Krier returned with Patrolman Hartley of the Canarsie station, he found Shaw weeping beside his wife's body. Dr. Smith, 102 Decatur street, said the woman died from a fractured skull. She had been dead several hours, he said, when Krier found the body.

The body of Smith was found at midnight Saturday, by Samuel Rinaldi, a cabinet maker, at the entrance of his shop at 113 Gold street. The body was identified as the Kings County morgue by David D. Smith, 102 Decatur street, a brother. The murdered man reached New York from South Africa three weeks ago, a member of the crew of the steamship Essex. He was 26 years old, and lived at 130 Second place, Brooklyn.

Thomas Basillis, 30 years old, of 182 East Third street, found at home yesterday with stab wounds in his abdomen and arm. He identified his brother John as his assailant, according to Detective O'Hara of the Fifth street station. John was charged with felonious assault and looked up. The wounded man is at Bellevue Hospital.

"Just as soon as those who are not in dire need of their bonus start contributing we will begin the work of relief," the chairman said.

Gen. George A. Wingate, also a member of the Central Relief Committee, said that the committee expected to be able to administer relief to suit the peculiar needs of many veterans who are not now eligible for help from the Government, men suffering from tuberculosis, for example, who cannot prove that they contracted the disease while in the Government service, and men whose compensation is not sufficient for them to live upon.

Other members of the Central Relief Committee are Lucien S. Breckenridge, Darwin P. Kingsley, Dr. Richard Derby, William Donovan and Chester H. King.

FORM FITTING SUITS ONLY BARRED AT BEACH
Mayor of Atlantic City Explains Recent Order.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
ATLANTIC CITY, June 12.—Mayor Bader went out on the beach to-day and after looking at the bathers he declared that they were taking the one piece bathing suit regulations too literally. The Mayor said that so far as he is concerned one piece bathing suits for women are all right if they are accompanied with hosiery, hair, a skirt effect and are not form fitting.

"I see nothing objectionable in the suits that have the skirt effect," the Mayor said, "but the form fitting suit will be barred. We want our beach kept respectable. The regulation applies to men as well as women bathers. No body can wear form fitting one piece suits, and women must wear hosiery. Persons who disregard the regulations must go to jail."

THREE MORE CLEAR OF SLACKER CHARGE
One Had Served in France, One Was Exempted and Third Died Before Call.

The records of three alleged slackers were cleared last night by the War Department in orders issued by Gen. Robert L. Bullard, commanding the Second Army Corps area, with headquarters at Governors Island. One of the men thus exonerated had served, one was officially exempted and one died before he had been called, according to the report.

In calling attention to the distinction drawn between delinquents and deserters the orders pointed out that in classing a man as a delinquent the draft boards referred to one who never had been called into the military service, but the term desertion applied to men who had failed to appear in response to the orders of induction.

Peter J. Barone, reported by Draft Board No. 2, Buffalo, was found to have actually served in the army from August 4, 1917, until August 1, 1919, with the rank of Lieutenant, Medical Corps. His name in the list of draft evaders was said to have been included through an error made in recording his address.

George E. Ames, Jr., reported by Draft Board No. 65, New York city, was given deferred classification for reason of dependents. He was listed first as a delinquent and then as a deserter, was declared due to his zeal in registering twice.

George Yoho, reported by Draft Board No. 3, New York city, was found to have died on December 15, 1917, prior to the order for his duty. He was ordered to report by David D. Smith, 102 Decatur street, a brother. The murdered man reached New York from South Africa three weeks ago, a member of the crew of the steamship Essex. He was 26 years old, and lived at 130 Second place, Brooklyn.

WOMAN HIT BY TRAIN AND KILLED IN SUBWAY
Not Determined How She Came to Be on Tracks.

A woman believed by the police to be Eva Piotti, 40, of 114 East Twenty-second street, Bayonne, and who in some manner undetermined reached the Seventh avenue subway tracks between Recker street and South Ferry stations, was struck and killed by a northbound train yesterday. After striking the woman the motorman brought his train to a stop and none of the cars passed over her body. A Standard Oil Company employee's tag and twenty cents was found in her pocket.

At the Bayonne address it was said a woman of the name lived there. Her husband had left for New York to identify the body.

MISSING GIRL RETURNS; HAD APHASIA ATTACK
Miss Bentley of Mount Vernon Disappeared Friday.

Miss Ruth Bentley, the sixteen-year-old daughter of William E. Bentley of 66 North Columbus avenue, Mount Vernon, returned to her home at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, after she had been missing since early Friday afternoon. Dr. Woodruff of Mount Vernon examined her and said she had been suffering from aphasia.

Miss Bentley had trouble with a teacher in the Mount Vernon High School Friday morning and went home. At 8 o'clock she left the house. Yesterday she had recovered sufficiently to tell her parents that she had gone to the home of friends named Allen in Fort Chester, and that a son of the family had brought her home.

GIRL, 15, SUES TO ANNUL HER TWO MARRIAGES
Both Husbands Believed She Was 18.

Florence Cobleigh, the fifteen-year-old Brooklyn girl who married twice within five months, is plaintiff in two suits for the annulment of her marriages, on the ground that on both occasions she was under age. It is the first time in Kings county that two actions for annulment have been begun at the same time by the same plaintiff. Supreme Court Justice Squires has named the girl's father, Herbert Cobleigh, a printer, of 61 Moore street, Brooklyn, her guardian.

The girl had only been out of school a few months when in November, 1920, she married Robert Brocklehurst, 19, of 683 Avenue C. They quarreled and separated. In April, 1921, she married Otto George Berlinger, 23, of 117 110th street, Richmond Hill. Both husbands believed she was 18. The girl is now in the custody of the Children's Society as a juvenile delinquent.

MOTOR KILLS GIRL; TWO BOYS DROWNED

DRIVER IS PAROLED
Boy Camper Dives to His Death in Hackensack River.

Mary Montamora, 10, of 500 West 146th street, was killed yesterday afternoon by an automobile which struck her as she was crossing Central avenue in Yonkers. She was with Mrs. Beattie Swenson of the same address and the two Swenson children, the four having gone to Yonkers for an outing.

The automobile was driven by John McCaughty, chauffeur for R. A. Low of 20 West Sixtieth street. In the machine were Mr. and Mrs. Low, and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hirsch of 160 Broadway. McCaughty was paroled by the Coroner pending an investigation.

Joseph Gadda, 19, of 19 Columbia street, Woodbridge, N. J., was drowned yesterday afternoon in the Hackensack River, near River Edge. He had gone swimming with two other boys and his head struck a rock when he dived. He failed to come to the surface and his body was finally recovered by the others.

After they had dragged Gadda to shore the two boys who had come with him called other campers. Then they ran away and have not yet been located.

Amelio Tamburri, 9 years old, of 511 Market street, Newark, went wading yesterday morning in the Morris Canal near his home and was drowned when he got beyond his depth. His body was recovered.

Five persons, two of them women, were hurt early yesterday morning when an automobile hit another car in Ocean Parkway, near the Coney Island Hospital. The girls who drove their Samsons Miss Anna Soudard of 247 West Twenty-third street and Miss Madeleine Corner of 247 West Thirty-fifth street, were taken to the hospital, but were not seriously hurt.

The three men in the two cars were Gerard Smith of 671 Park street, Brooklyn; Angelo Guero of 133 Mott street, and William Spoker of 124 East Tenth street, Brooklyn. They were able to go home after their injuries had been dressed by ambulance surgeons. Smith's machine hit that of Guero, which had been parked while Guero repaired a tire. Smith was held by the police, charged with reckless driving.

An automobile owned and driven by Vincent Maher of 933 Tiebout avenue, Hartford, Conn., struck Daniel Sullivan, Jr., 7 years old, of 835 St. Ann's avenue, as the boy was playing in St. Ann's avenue, near West 203d street. Maher took the boy to Lebanon Hospital, where physicians said he had been instantly killed. Maher was held on a technical charge of homicide by the police of the Alexander avenue station.

ARCHBISHOP SPEEDS 20 JESUIT TEACHERS
Glad They Will Go to Philippines Under U. S. Flag.

Twenty Jesuit missionaries, all Americans, who start to-day to take up work in the Philippines, that for three centuries has been coveted by Spanish Jesuits, received the pontifical blessing of Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes last night in a solemn ceremony of farewell at St. Francis Xavier's Church in West Sixteenth street.

The missionaries originally intended to work at Bombay, in British India, but their passports were not forthcoming after a year of waiting. Although no explanation has been vouchsafed by either Washington or London, the fact that most of the Jesuits have Irish names had provoked comment.

In his word of farewell to the Jesuits, who include ten priests and ten scholars, Archbishop Hayes said he was glad they were not going to India, but instead were carrying on their work under the American flag.

The missionary unit, which is headed by the Rev. John J. Thompson, will start this afternoon, travelling by way of Vancouver. The missionaries are: The Rev. John Thompson, former associate editor of the Messenger of the Sacred Heart; the Rev. Francis A. Byrne, vice-president of St. Andrews-on-the-Buda, the Jesuit novitiate; the Rev. Henry A. Coffey, professor of philosophy at Woodstock and St. Andrews-on-the-Buda; the Rev. Charles F. Connor, prefect of studies at St. Francis Xavier's College, Philadelphia; the Rev. Edward J. Moran, vice-president of St. Canisius College, Buffalo; the Rev. John A. Gerning, headmaster of Georgetown Preparatory School; the Rev. Louis Ott, professor of philosophy at St. Canisius College; the Rev. Patrick Rafferty, professor of physics at Holy Cross College; the Rev. Arthur Homan, professor of chemistry at Georgetown University; the Rev. Hugo McNulty, former prefect of studies at St. Francis Xavier's, and the Rev. Michael J. O'Connell, a scholar at St. Francis Xavier's.

The scholars are Walter W. Claffey, Thomas J. Feeney, Henry L. Irwin, Raymond R. Grogan, John F. Hurley, John A. Pollock, Morgan F. Downey, Charles P. Gushier, Walter J. Hamilton and Joseph P. Merrick.

The other two boys who were burned are still seriously hurt and are not expected to recover. They are John Noviger, 11 years old, of 24 Bush avenue, and Donald Cottrill, 16, of 2995 Richmond Terrace, both of Mariners' Harbor. It is Very Common to Hear Men finding fault with their business occupations, and families there are in every city whose men, having retired from trade and mechanical vocations, speak despondingly of honest business now conducted by the younger men growing up to take the places of their fathers.

From the beginning we have always been proud of our business and have endeavored to put our strength—body and soul—in all we undertake to do.

It has always seemed to be a rule for one merchant to try to run down the goods of and undersell the other, but our idea and undertaking has always been not to undervalue what others did, and not so much to undersell as to excel in every particular in qualities and worthiness as far as possible.

Setters of type and printers for more than a hundred years have proudly referred to the stamp Benjamin Franklin left upon his life calling. Read the inscription he caused to be put on his tomb at Fifth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia: "Benjamin Franklin, Printer."

It depends upon the man to make his business honorable. It does not often come readily-made.
